The BIS

Promoting global monetary and financial stability through international cooperation

The global bank for central banks

The Bank for International Settlements (BIS) is an international organisation that serves central banks and other financial authorities across the globe to support their pursuit of monetary and financial stability through international cooperation. It also acts as a bank for central banks.

The BIS is owned by 63 member central banks and monetary authorities from around the world.

We provide members with:

Our work

is anchored in strong core values that shape the way we work

We are headquartered in Basel, Switzerland, and have representative offices in Hong Kong SAR and Mexico City

International cooperation

Through the Basel Process, the BIS acts as a forum for discussion and a platform for cooperation among policymakers, to foster monetary and financial stability. In this role, we contribute our expertise in economic research and analysis, banking, financial innovation and regulatory and supervisory issues to add value to the cooperative efforts.

This close interaction with policymakers allows us to respond to their needs more effectively, in a mutually enriching dialogue that enhances the collaborative process.

Fostering responsible innovation

The BIS has leveraged technology and new collaboration channels to serve the central banking community in an environment of rapid technological change.

The BIS Innovation Hub helps central banks work together to respond to the technological innovation that is rapidly transforming the financial landscape, to realise its benefits while avoiding the associated risks.

Our Cyber Resilience Coordination Centre provides a structured approach to knowledge-sharing, collaboration and operational readiness among central banks in the area of cyber resilience.

Economic research and analysis

Research at the BIS supports central banks in their pursuit of monetary and financial stability. We provide our stakeholders with in-depth analysis and insights by drawing on our unique position at the intersection of research and policy.

We also compile and disseminate international statistics on financial institutions and markets.

We have expanded our ability to manage and exploit increasing volumes and variety of data, given the availability of big data and advanced analytics technologies.

Banking services

We offer financial services exclusively to central banks, monetary authorities and international organisations, mainly to assist them in the management of their foreign exchange assets.

As an institution owned and governed by central banks, we are well placed to understand the needs of reserve managers – their primary focus on safety and liquidity, as well as the evolving need to diversify their exposures and obtain a competitive return.

To meet those needs, we provide credit, gold and foreign exchange intermediation, and asset management services, while administering our own capital. An integrated risk management function ensures that financial and operational risks are properly measured and controlled.

International groups at the BIS

The BIS hosts international groups engaged in standard setting and the pursuit of financial stability.

BIS committees

The Basel Committee on Banking Supervision is the primary global standard setter for the prudential regulation and supervision of banks and provides a forum for cooperation on banking supervision matters.

The BIS Committee on Payments and Market Infrastructures is the global standard-setting body for the promotion of the safety and efficiency of payment, clearing, settlement and reporting systems and other financial market infrastructures.

The Committee on the Global Financial System monitors financial sector developments and analyses their implications for financial stability and central bank policy.

The Markets Committee is a forum for senior central bank officials to discuss current market conditions, market functioning and monetary policy operations.

The Central Bank Governance Group is the forum for central bank governors' discussions and knowledge-sharing on governance and institutional design.

The Irving Fisher Committee on Central Bank Statistics is a forum in which central bank economists and statisticians engage with and address statistical topics related to monetary policy and financial stability.

The following associations also have secretariats at the BIS, but have their own separate legal identity and governance structure, and report to their members.

The Financial Stability Board promotes international financial stability by coordinating the work of national financial authorities and international standard-setting bodies as they develop regulatory, supervisory and other policies.

The International Association of Deposit Insurers advances standards and guidance for effective deposit insurance systems and promotes international cooperation among deposit insurers, bank resolution authorities and other safety net organisations.

The International Association of Insurance Supervisors sets global standards for the insurance sector to promote effective and globally consistent supervision for the benefit and protection of policyholders and to contribute to global financial stability.

In fulfilling our mission, we strive to help our member central banks navigate the opportunities and challenges they face, and to provide insights and services to support their work.

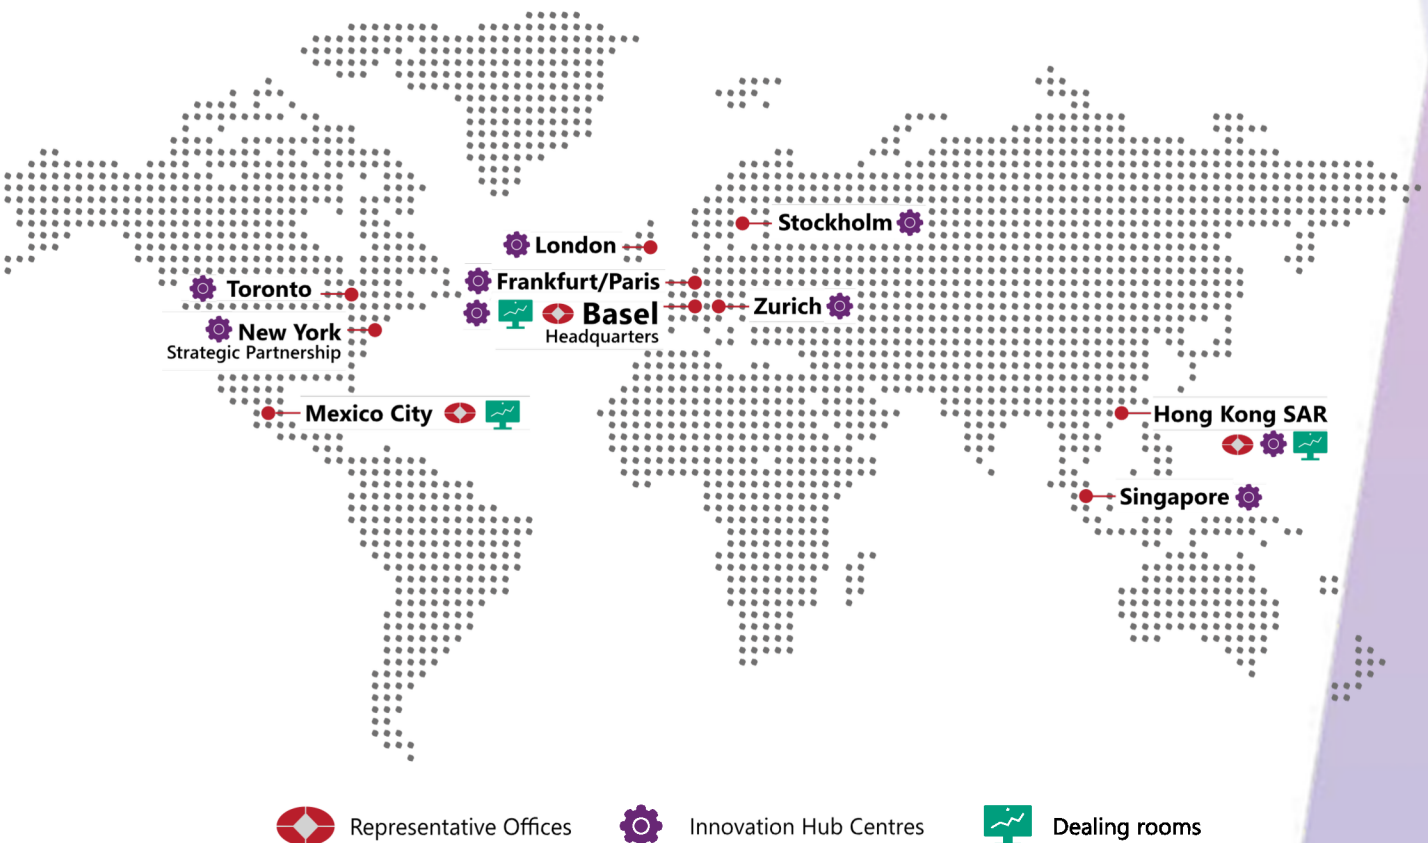

BIS staff

The BIS is a small and inclusive organisation. We currently employ over 600 staff members from nearly 60 countries.

Our staff have expertise in finance, banking, risk management, international law, monetary and financial economics, statistics, financial technology and cyber security, among other fields.
