

---

Terms of use of the EMS external website

This website is administered by the Bank for International Settlements ("BIS"). Use of this website constitutes agreement by users of this website ("Users") with the following terms.

1. Copyright

- 1.1 Except where expressly stated to the contrary, copyright and other intellectual property rights in the material and information available on this website, in the names, acronyms and logos of the BIS, and with respect to the "look and feel" of this website, are owned by the BIS. Any rights not expressly granted herein are reserved.
- 1.2 Users may download, display, print out and photocopy material posted on this website for personal reference and may draw the attention of others within their organisation to material posted on this website.
- 1.3 Some material on this website may contain references to materials from third parties, for which copyright must be honoured.
- 1.4 Any queries related to this website or any material posted on this website should be sent to meeting.services@bis.org.

2. Privacy policy

- 2.1 The BIS may collect, store and use the following kinds of personal data:
  - information about Users' computer and Users' visits to and use of this website, such as Users' IP address, browser type, referral source, the date and time of visit and number of page views;
  - information that Users provide to the BIS for the purpose of registering with this website, such as title, name, address, organisation, gender, password, e-mail address or phone number;
  - any other information that Users choose to send to the BIS.
- 2.2 The BIS may use the personal data so collected to:
  - administer the website;
  - enable the use of the services available on the website by Users;
  - send Users general communication and email notifications which Users have specifically requested;
  - deal with enquiries made by Users relating to this website.

The information provided by Users is used exclusively for the purposes specified herein. The only third party with access to the information is the provider of the external server that hosts the database containing the information. The contract between the BIS and the third party contains strict confidential obligations with respect to the information.

- 2.3 The BIS uses “cookies” to collect information about how its website is being used. A cookie is a text-only string of information that is transferred from the BIS website to the cookie file of the browser on the hard disk of the Users’ computer when Users visit the BIS website. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but the browser can usually be set to prevent this. Users may wish to consult the Help file of their web browser to find out more about this option.
- 2.4 The BIS will take reasonable technical and organisational precautions to prevent the loss, misuse or alteration of Users’ personal information. Of course, data transmission over the internet is inherently insecure, and the BIS cannot guarantee the security of the data sent over the internet. Users are responsible for keeping their password and user details confidential.

3. Disclaimers

- 3.1 The BIS does not warrant or guarantee the accuracy and completeness of the information on this website; nor does the BIS commit to ensuring that the website remains available or that the material on the website is kept up-to-date. Under no circumstances shall the BIS be liable for any loss, damage, liability or expense suffered in connection with reliance by any person on any material on this website.
- 3.2 This website may contain electronic links to other websites or refer to information provided by the third parties. This does not imply any endorsement or responsibility on the part of the BIS with respect to third party websites or information.
- 3.3 Under no circumstances shall the BIS be liable for any loss, damage, liability or expense suffered in connection with the use of this website, including (but not limited to) any fault, error, omission, interruption or delay.

The BIS may at any time without notice:

- (a) add to, update or modify material on this website; or
- (b) limit access to or discontinue the whole or any part of this website.

Nothing in these terms and conditions shall constitute a waiver of any of the privileges or immunities of the BIS in any jurisdiction.

These terms are governed by Swiss law.